

BOUTIQUE FOR A WEEK

VOLUNTEER AGREEMENT

In an effort to ensure the quality of our sale by retaining a sufficient number of volunteer workers, Boutique for a Week (BFAW) requires that volunteers fulfill their pledged obligation to work the shift(s) they have selected.

Volunteers are expected to be on time and fulfill their commitment. If a volunteer is not a consignor as well, then BFAW can, at its sole discretion, revoke any opportunities for future volunteer prospects in future BFAW Sales.

In emergency situations, the Volunteer will be allowed to participate again in Volunteer Preview Sales, but a monetary deduction may still be made at the discretion of BFAW as provision for hired help that may need to be made. Should extenuating circumstances prevent you from shopping at the Preview Sale, it would still be our expectation that you would fulfill your volunteer commitment.

Please do not bring children with you when you come to fulfill your volunteer commitment duties.

We are always amazed and blessed by the women who serve so faithfully at each sale. Please understand that these guidelines have been created in an effort to maintain a high quality sale and a spirit of fairness to all who give sacrificially of their time.
